HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton contended Monday that Pennsylvania has one of the worst reputations in American industry for loopholes in its unemployment compensation laws.

"Of all our competitor states, Pennsylvania is the only one with a shaky fund," the governor said in a letter to former Democratic Gov. George M. Leader. The text of Scranton's letter was released to newsmen.

Leader contended U.C. fund problems were traceable to what he termed "bad short-sighted management of the U.C. fund back in 1949 and 1951 by a Republican administration."

Scranton said "my interest, and I am sure your interest, is in the solutions. This is more important than beating dead horses from the past."

Sinatra Kidnap Trial Jolted

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rock 'n' roll singer Dean Torrence, contradicting his own testimony and rocking the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnap trial, testified Monday that defendant Barry Keenan told him last October about plans for the alleged abduction.

He said Keenan had given him about $25,000 but that he had given it back.

Torrence testified for the prosecution Monday morning that he had been Keenan's best friend and had lent him money but denied that he had helped finance a kidnap plot.

62 Counties Back Demo Slate

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse said Monday 62 of the party's 67 county organizations are supporting the slate of primary candidates endorsed by the state policy committee.

Morse said he has not yet heard from four counties, which he refused to identify.

He added, however, that a fifth county, Clarion, was undecided. He noted that Genevieve Blatt, secretary of Internal Affairs, an independent candidate seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, was a native of Clarion County.

Senators Back Bible Reading

HARRISBURG (AP)—Twenty seven senators called upon the Congress Monday to amend the U.S. Constitution to specifically permit "Bible reading and prayer" in the nation's public schools.

Sen. George Wade, R-Cumberland, the principal sponsor of the resolution, was joined by colleagues on both sides of the aisle.

FDA Stops Sale Of Parnate Pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 15 persons died of strokes while taking a new drug for mental depression, the Food and Drug Administration said Monday.

The FDA said it had concluded that the drug, known generically as tranylcypromine and by the trade name of Parnate, is not safe for continued distribution under present labeling.

The FDA added that the manufacturer, Smith, Kline & French Laboratories of Philadelphia, was removing the drug from the market although it had advised the agency that it did not agree with FDA conclusions about the drug.

Boy, 9, Saved From Snow

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — A plucky 9-year-old boy was found unharmed Monday after spending about 30 hours alone in frigid, rugged country near mile-high Prescott.

Third grader Dennis Hargus told his rescuers, "I sure am tired."

Stock Market Hits 800 Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market touched briefly the significant 800 level in the Dow Jones industrial average Monday then settled back in a rash of profit taking.

Volume of 5.66 million shares compared with Thursday's pre-weekend session of 4.72 million and was the largest since Jan. 16 when 6.21 million shares changed hands.

The Dow industrials read exactly 800.00 at 12:30 p.m. EST when they had a gain of 3.01. They sank back to 797.12, a net gain of only .13, at the close. (See Stock List On Page 12)

Women Inmates Pick Death Over Life In Nazi Camp

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A former Auschwitz prisoner testified Monday that women inmates at the Nazi concentration camp often "preferred to die with the children clapped to their breasts than take the opportunity to live and work at Auschwitz."

Dr. Otto Wolken, 60, a Viennese physician, wept as he told Germany's largest war crimes trial that healthy young mothers, "given the chance to work at Auschwitz, often chose to die with their children."

"Children were automatically sent to the gas chambers," Dr. Wolken told the trial here of 22 former SS guards and functionaries at the Nazi concentration camp.

Dr. Wolken, a physician-inmate in the camp, said he witnessed one such scene in July 1944, when mothers refused to be parted from their children.

"Almost as soon as this group of people were brought to the camp, the husbands of the women were led off to gas chambers. The women, mostly young mothers, were then ordered to the women's section of the camp where they were to have been put to work."

"But the women refused to be parted from their children. They grabbed their young and refused to be separated from them even when the SS guards tried to pull them apart. The guards finally decided to send them all to their deaths. The women marched off with their children clapped to their breasts."

Dr. Wolken, the first former Auschwitz prisoner to testify at the trial, broke down and wept while he described the scene to the court.

He said an SS guard at the camp also witnessed the scene. "I asked him what was happening when I heard all the crying and weeping from the mothers and children. Between sobs, the guard blurted out: 'Don't you see, they are going to kill the children.'"

The thin, balding witness said this guard had often played with the camp's children before they were gassed.

He identified the guard merely as Schlage. One of the defendants is former SS Pvt. Bruno Schlegel, 60.

Remaining to be settled are side issues involving wage scales, holiday pay, vacations and other subjects. Congress called for continued negotiation on these issues, but so far they appear to be deadlocked.

Both Mrs. Miller and Harold P. Swanger, Victoria's fifth grade instructor, testified that they read Bible stories—but not the Bible itself—to their pupils.

However, his teacher, Mrs. J. Herbert Miller, told the court she did not "consider it as a punishment."

State News Roundup

Shortway Expansion

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP) — Ground clearing began Monday for the first segment of the Key-Shortway in Clearfield County, a right-of-way at Bish-town. The section will require about two years to complete and cost $1,631,174.

$780,000 Gift F&M College

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Franklin & Marshall College said today it has been given a $780,000 grant by the Longwood Foundation of Wilmington, Del., for use in building a $2.35 million physical science building. The school said it was the largest grant in its history.

Farm Co-ops Merge July 1

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — The corporate name, Agway Inc., has been given to a giant farm cooperative that is being created through a merger, it was announced Monday.

Agway will assume the assets of the cooperative Grange League Federation Inc. (GLF) and Eastern States Farmers' Exchange Inc. on July 1. Members of the two cooperatives approved the merger last week.

GLF and Eastern do a combined annual business of more than $300 million in a combined total of 11 states.

GLF, based in Ithaca, operates in New York state, New Jersey and northern Pennsylvania.

Eastern's territory takes in New England, Delaware and parts of Maryland, Ohio and eastern Pennsylvania. Its headquarters are in West Springfield, Mass.

The site for Agway's headquarters has not yet been selected.

Union Vote Retains Firm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Members of United Steelworkers Local 2898, by virtually a unanimous vote, agreed Sunday to 11 work rule changes to preserve their jobs at the SKF Industries Inc. plant in North Philadelphia. Wages are not involved. More than 2,000 workers voted yes while only two voted no.

The union members were urged to accept the changes by their president, Allen O'Hara, during a four-hour meeting.

The company last month threatened to move the Roller Bearing Division to Shelbyville, Tenn., because of what it termed uncompetitive conditions. About 600 workers belonging to the local are employed at the Roller Bearing Division.

SKF officials said the decision by the union would clear the way for the plant to remain in Philadelphia and possibly even expand.

Woman Held In Shooting

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Edna Schaller, a 69-year-old widow, was held without bail Sunday on a homicide charge in the fatal shooting of the education director at Eastern State Correctional Institution.

She was given a hearing before Magistrate Edward S. Cox. Authorities said the victim, Robert Burman, 60, was shot in the head Thursday night during a quarrel in Mrs. Schaller's home. He died Saturday in Temple University Hospital.

Burman's wife, a registered nurse, died 13 months ago.

Crackdown On Excess Brokers

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Insurance Department is cracking down on its regulation of excess brokers in Pennsylvania.

Insurance Commissioner Audrey Kelly said last week she has ordered the 103 excess brokers operating in the commonwealth to make every effort to place their insurance business with Pennsylvania firms before taking it outside the state.

It has been customary for excess brokers to place business with out-of-state firms not subject to regulation by the department, Mrs. Kelly explained.

The excess brokers act as agents for these foreign firms. Mrs. Kelly said her new order will require the excess brokers to file affidavits that they earnestly attempted to place their insurance with state firms. The firms must be listed in the broker's affidavit.

Any falsely sworn affidavits, she continued, would be grounds for revocation of licenses to do business in Pennsylvania.

A FLOORING SITUATION—So many teenagers are showing up these days at the temporary quarter of the Nashville Public Library that there aren't enough desks for them. Chief Librarian Marshall Stewart says it's not uncommon to see them sprawled on the floors, especially on Saturdays. ### Bar Urges Overhaul Of Courts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A complete overhaul of Pennsylvania's 90-year-old court system has been recommended by a subcommittee of the Philadelphia Bar Association.

"Only drastic changes" in the courts in the form of a new judiciary article for the state constitution can bring the courts up to date, the subcommittee on organization of courts said.

It backs recommendations of the Pennsylvania Bar Association for changes in the court system from the state Supreme Court through the local courts.

The most important of these recommendations, the subcommittee said, is the proposed creation of district courts to replace local common pleas and county courts.

Under the proposal all courts would be under the administrative supervision of the chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Bishop Asks Close Ties For Colleges

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Catholic higher education can be served best if religious orders set aside their differences and cooperate completely, according to the Most Rev. John J. Krol, archbishop of the Philadelphia Roman Catholic Diocese.

"The problems of increased enrollments, greater specialization and spiraling costs clearly point to the need for greater cooperative efforts among our colleges," Archbishop Krol told some 200 Catholic college administrators last week at the winter meeting of the eastern regional unit of the National Catholic Education Association at Villanova University.

Said Archbishop Krol: "It would be a strange irony and even a scandal if religious community differences should prevent Catholic colleges from cooperating with each other. It would be an even greater irony in these times if we can establish ecumenism with our non-Catholic neighbors throughout the world but not among our own Catholic colleges."

It would be an even greater irony in these times if we can establish ecumenism with our non-Catholic neighbors throughout the world but not among our own Catholic colleges."

GOP Hopeful Urges Rights Of Individual

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — W. Henry MacFarland Jr. says he wants to be the next U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania so he can "fight the encroachment of government on the rights of the individual."

MacFarland, 42, is making his first bid for public office in contesting incumbent Hugh Scott for the Republican nomination.

He lists his only occupation as editor and executive chairman of the American Flag Committee, which is headquartered in his home. The newsletter's current issue is headlined: "The Red motive behind the assassination of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy."

It contains this comment: "President John F. Kennedy was assassinated . . . because his violent death would create the psychological atmosphere necessary for accomplishing the following results:

"1. Prevent the nomination and election of a conservative Republican president in 1964.

"2. Create the public and political atmosphere needed to coerce Congress into enacting, without critical deliberation, an entire series of measures favorable to both the domestic and international objectives of world communism."

MacFarland is a slender man, with thinning blond hair. His eyes flash behind gold-rimmed glasses as he speaks rapidly of his political philosophy.

Stassen Says Ike Would Back Him

BOSTON (AP) — Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said this week he was assured by former President Eisenhower of support if Stassen wins the nomination.

Stassen is entered in the March 10 New Hampshire presidential preference primary.

The former Minnesota governor spoke in a pre-recorded interview broadcast over WBZ.

He said Eisenhower told him, "If I should win the nomination, he will go all out toward a final election. I'm convinced with his thorough cooperation in a final election I could defeat President Johnson."

Stassen, now a Philadelphiaan, criticized the Johnson administration foreign aid program, saying, "It has had really pretty bad handling at the present time. I think the foreign aid program has too much of a sort of Texas twist to it and that's not the right way to carry it out."

He also said "I think it's wrong to try to starve out the people of Cuba, which we are now trying to do."

"I would differentiate between what happens in relation to the people of Cuba and what you do in relation to the government when it is adverse like the Cuban government. You should be very firm with the government and not engage in these kind of petty maneuvers which have characterized the recent picture."

Henry Bonus, 71, Iron River, Mich., said he was "just going for a walk," when he rested by curling up inside a hollow log far into the woods. Two nights and a day later he was found by a skiing couple, legs frozen and hands frost-bitten, but still alive after surviving two 12-degree nights.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODIE ISHMAEL

DARKNESS AT NOON

Before setting forth on the tragic road to Calvary, Jesus warned His followers of the dark and forbidding future.

He foretold the destruction of the temple and the fall of Jerusalem, only 40 years thence. He warned them that they would be hated and persecuted and eventually martyred for their beliefs. But for those who persevered, He promised life everlasting.

Finally, in some of the grandest and grimmest sentences in all literature, He foretold the end of the world: "The sun shall be darkened and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory." (Mark XIV:24-26) 2-25

Scott Says Letter Never Got To LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said in a Senate speech Monday that a Jan. 17 letter written jointly by himself and nine other senators to President Johnson urging the President's strong, public support for a treaty outlawing race murder apparently never reached the chief executive.

Scott said the letter asked Johnson's help in getting the treaty on genocide, already ratified by 66 nations, out of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee where it "has languished for years."

Scott said the letter appeared to have been given the same treatment by White House aides as letters requesting the President to crown a beauty queen.

"I am very distressed at this huck passing," said Scott, adding that if Johnson had seen the letter he undoubtedly would have supplied the leadership needed for Senate approval of the treaty.

The treaty first was submitted to the Senate by President Truman in 1949.

Scott said he received a reply to the letter from Frederick G. Dutton, assistant secretary of state, who said the administration favors ratification of the treaty, outlawing race murder.

Ballot Positions Drawing Set

HARRISBURG (AP) — Drawings for ballot positions of candidates in the April 28 primary election will be held Thursday in the state capitol.

George I. Bloom, secretary of the Commonwealth, announced the schedule Monday. The drawings will start at 9 a.m. in the Senate chamber for the offices of representative in Congress, state senator, state committee, and delegates and alternate delegates to the national party conventions.

Drawings will be held in Bloom's office at noon for U.S. senator, Superior Court judge, auditor general, and state treasurer.

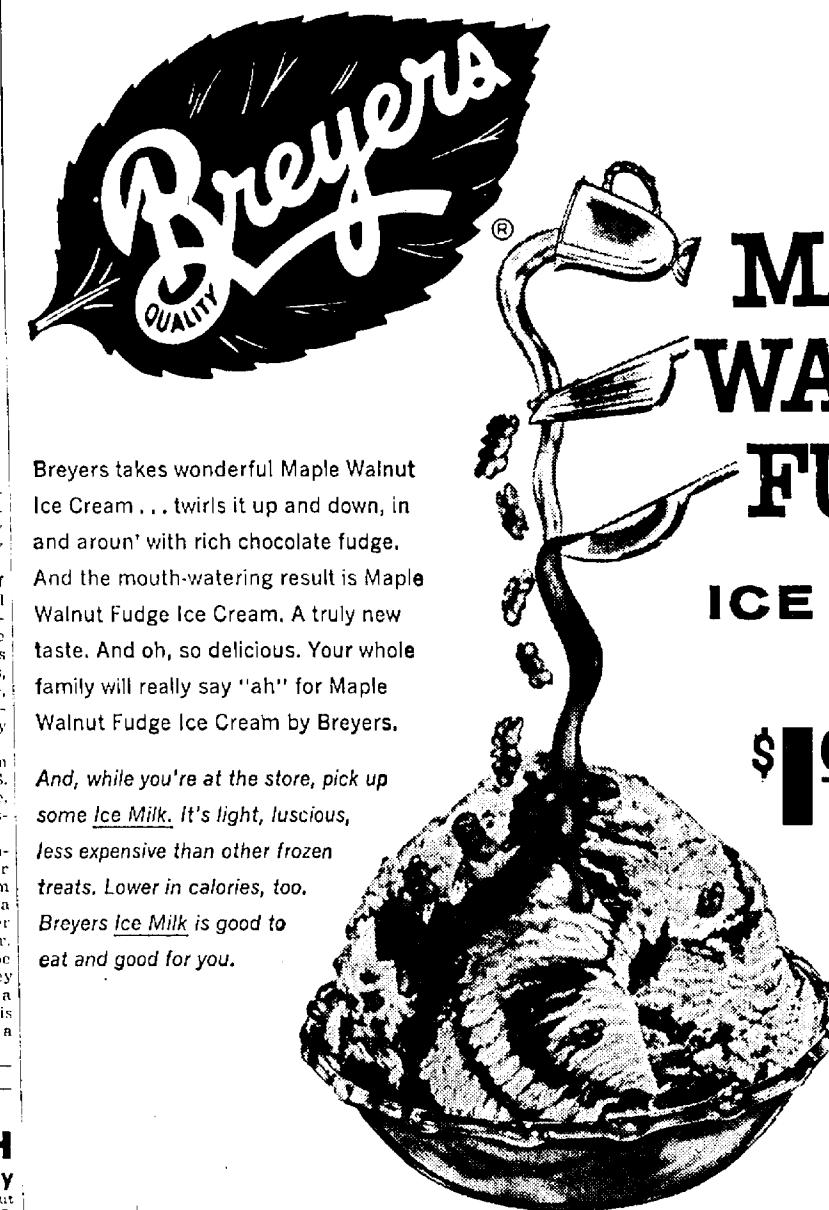

At 2 p.m. in the Senate chamber drawings will be held for state representative posts from Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, followed by the other counties in alphabetical order.

Candidates do not have to be present for the drawings. They may send a proxy. In lieu of a drawing by the candidate or his proxy, Bloom will designate a person to make the drawing.

The Joy of Total Electric Living Starts with Electric Home Heating

The full enjoyment of any home comes only when you cease to be a slave to it. In the total electric home, electric servants not only take over back-breaking, tedious chores but eliminate such tasks to begin with.

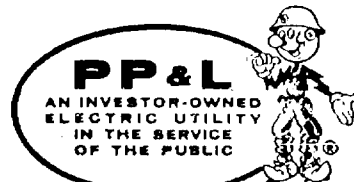

Take electric home heating for example. Since electric heat is flameless, it's as clean as electric light. There's nothing to burn to create soot and grime, and so walls and furnishings stay brighter longer.

Electric home heating offers COMFORT-PLUS even on the coldest, windiest days. You get gentle warmth all over . . . and with resistance types of heat you can enjoy room-by-room control.

Best of all, PP&L's special low rate makes electric heating a bigger bargain than ever . . . now it's as low as 1.35¢ per kilowatt-hour!

More than 4,000 PP&L customers . . . in new homes, older homes, mobile homes and apartments . . . are already enjoying FLAMELESS electric home heating. Why not you, too? See your Recommended Reddy Kilowatt Electric Home Heating Dealer or call PP&L today!

Monroe's Real Estate Assessment Up $3,084,900

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County's total real estate assessment rose $3,084,900 over last year, according to figures released yesterday by the Monroe County Commissioners.

Jury Rules In Favor Of Accountant

STROUDSBURG — A jury deliberated for seven and one-half hours before returning a $2,000 verdict in favor of Samuel Monatt of Stroudsburg in his civil breach of contract suit against Joseph G. DeRenzi and Son of Stroudsburg.

The trial started Friday and ended Saturday at 11:15 p.m. Judge James B. Rutherford said he would not be able to return to court yesterday so the jury was detained Saturday night until they came up with a verdict.

Monatt, a certified public accountant with offices at 800 Main St., was suing the DeRenzi firm aluminum dealers at 21 N. Sixth St., for accounting fees which DeRenzi had refused to pay.

Monatt's original bill was for $3,000. It was up to the jury to decide the reasonable value of the fee charged for the services rendered.

Atty. Maxwell H. Cohen of Stroudsburg represented Monatt and Atty. James R. Marsh of Stroudsburg was counsel for DeRenzi.

Two juries were impaneled in civil court yesterday during the last day of the February term of court. One of the cases was adjourned until March 9, by President Judge Fred W. Davis and a settlement was made in the other.

The out of court settlement was made in a civil case in which Emma B. Cobosco of Wilkes-Barre was suing Lone Pine Inn, Inc., in Henryville for injuries she received when she slipped and fell on the defendants' property in 1961.

Atty. Cohen represented Mrs. Cobosco and the Stroudsburg law firm of Robinson and Hoffman defended the inn.

Sitting on the jury were Marguerite E. Allen and Kenneth E. Stevens, both of Stroudsburg; Marie C. Borden and Calvin B. Smith, both of Hamilton Township; Eleanor G. Bristol and Gordon L. Hale, both of Barrett Township; Ruth Mae Eppley and Minerva Gould, both of East Stroudsburg.

Also Elmer G. Marsh of Ross Township; Helen A. McBride of Stroud Township; Cora Gladys R. Smith, of Pocono Township and James T. Harbison of East Stroudsburg.

The postponed case is a trespass action brought by Mildred Protas of New York City, administratrix of the estate of her late husband, George, against Elizabeth A. Wegmann of New York City; Joseph Virtue Jr. of Wilkes-Barre, and Wayne and Leonora Murphy of New York State.

Mrs. Protas is suing for damages resulting from the death of her husband in Nov. 1959 in an automobile accident on Rt. 311 in Swiftwater.

The late Mr. Protas was a passenger in a car driven by Miss Wegmann when it rammed into the back of a truck driven by Wayne Murphy. The complaint states Mr. Protas was hurled from the vehicle in the path of Virtue's car, which struck him.

Serving on the jury are Arthur Besoecker of Mt. Pocono; Marie C. Borden and William Dorshimer, both of Hamilton Township; Eleanor G. Bristol and Gladys E. Williams, both of Barrett Township; Frank Cracolice of East Stroudsburg; Clyde M. Heller of Smithfield Township.

Also Leo F. McNally of Stroudsburg; Frank B. Miller of Middle Smithfield; George E. Newhart of Tobyhanna Township; Joyce A. Phillips of Stroud Township and Edwin C. Wagner of Pocono Township.

The commissioners noted that such an increase in value means an increase in revenues. The same number of mills tax would thus give more tax money, they said.

This is equivalent to an increase in mills, they said, and might make it possible for some municipalities to lower tax rates this year, or at least keep it static this year.

35 Per Cent of Value
The assessed figure is 34 per cent of the market value of real estate, according to the office of C. A. Neuman, chief assessor. This would mean that the market value of Monroe County's real estate is $8,814,000 over last year.

The total assessment for the county this year is $72,903,775, compared with $69,818,875 last year, and $68,037,110 in 1962.

Occupational assessments went from $4,655,310 in 1962 to $4,649,330 in 1963, according to the report.

Westbrook Boy Of Month; Editor Exchange's Speaker

EAST STROUDSBURG — William R. Westbrook, 17, was named Boy of the Month by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club Monday night.

An honor student and ham radio operator, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Westbrook of 315 Normal St., East Stroudsburg.

Ralph Burrows, principal of East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School and chairman of the Boy of the Month Committee, made the award at the dinner meeting at the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Jim Ottaway Jr., editor of The Daily Record, spoke on the editorial policies of the newspaper.

He said the newspaper represents "the individual citizen, the little man, who cannot attend every meeting of the county commissioners, the borough council or the school board."

"The New England town meeting, where every citizen could hear his elected representative transact the business of democracy and where every citizen could speak his mind is no longer possible," Ottaway said.

"Public officials still meet, but the newspaper reporter is too often a lonely observer. 'Other citizens are at work, or busy elsewhere or not interested until the newspaper reports that they no longer can burn trash on Mondays and Thursdays, or that their taxes went up three mills,' he added.

Going To Drexel
The Boy of the Month, a senior at East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School, has been accepted at Drexel Institute of Technology where he will major in electrical engineering.

William Hilgert Rites Conducted
Funeral services for William Hilgert, 63, of Cresco were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in The Lanternman Funeral Home with the Rev. John Roberts officiating.

Burial was in the Oakland Cemetery Mountaintown. The pallbearers were Charles Wilson, Carl Brown, John Campbell, Archie Fowler, Ray Miller, and Grant Bush.

Westbrook works with light and sound effects on the high school stage crew, holds over 50 awards and certificates for his amateur radio activities, has held four offices and is now past master counselor of the Pocono Mountains Chapter of the Order of DeMolay.

He has won prizes in Monroe County Science Fairs.

Funeral Notices

Pleads For Stokes Reopening

Pipher On 'Mercy Mission'

STROUDSBURG — Stuart Pipher, Monroe County commissioner, appeared before the Stroudsburg Water Authority last night on a "mercy mission."

Pipher and commissioners John Price and Stanley Rader attended an authority meeting to try and find some way to reopen the swimming hole on Broadhead Creek of Stokes Mill Road in Stroud Township.

The authority stopped swimming there when it found it impossible to secure liability insurance to cover swimmers and fishermen who used the hole.

Pipher told the authority that Joseph Small, Stroudsburg mayor, said insurance covering swimming and fishing activities would only cost $28.

Harold Heberling, the authority's insurance agent told Pipher he had contacted several insurance companies and none would take the risk involved.

"I offered the insurance to Small and he told me, 'I am sorry I cannot handle it because I am mayor,'" said Heberling. Small is also an insurance agent.

Russell Hughes, authority chairman, said, "If we go into this we would have to open a playground and we are not in that business. We are here to give Stroudsburg water."

Pipher said the commissioners will find out what the state would require to turn the facility into a public swimming and fishing spot. He said if these requirements are met it may be possible to get the needed liability insurance.

Judge Davis Explains Decision
STROUDSBURG — President Judge Fred W. Davis yesterday explained his recent decision to free a Pennsylvania State Trooper from paying half of the court costs in a case the trooper was prosecuting.

Judge Davis made his remarks before discharging the last jury of the February term of court. He said he was making the remarks because "the jury could get the wrong impression from reports in the press and on the radio."

The Daily Record in a news story reported the next day: "President Judge Fred W. Davis in a rare move yesterday set aside a jury's verdict which sentenced a Pennsylvania State Trooper to pay half of the court costs of a trial the trooper prosecuted."

In an editorial on Feb. 14, The Record said:

"We congratulate Monroe County Judge Fred W. Davis for setting aside the jury's verdict and for stating publicly that he found ample evidence for finding the defendant guilty."

Homer Jones, a trooper from the Mt. Pocono sub-station, appeared in a case as the prosecutor against a man accused of being involved in a hit and run accident on Rt. 611 about two miles south of Mt. Pocono.

The jury found the defendant not guilty and ordered Trooper Jones and the defendant to share court costs.

The next day Judge Davis relieved Jones from paying the costs and placed them on the county. "I was entirely within my rights to do what I did. I was not setting aside the jury's verdict," he said.

The judge said it was not right for a trooper who was only doing his job to have to pay court costs.

We have found from experience that a complete efficient service makes for reasonable prices without any sacrifice in quality or workmanship.

Wildcat Picket Line Halts Work At General Hospital

EAST STROUDSBURG — A wildcat picket line — manned by 11 local bricklayers seeking employment — stopped work yesterday on the five-story addition to the General Hospital of Monroe County now under construction.

A spokesman for the contractors on the job last night said work will resume today.

Earl Hilliard of Stroudsburg, RD 2, business agent of Local 52 of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union of America, said the local bricklayers will continue their protest march this morning at 7:30.

Pickets yesterday carried signs saying, "I am a Monroe County resident bricklayer. Why can't I get a job?"

Hilliard said his group is demonstrating because Clarence B. Haney of Bethlehem, the job's brick contractor, employs only one Monroe County bricklayer.

Mark Parseghian, Haney vice president, said yesterday, his men were sent home until it was determined if the marchers had the sanction of the international's office in Washington, D.C.

It was reported the union's headquarters in Washington sent Hilliard a telegram yesterday ordering him to remove all pickets from the job.

Hilliard maintains the marchers are not acting in name of the union but "simply as private citizens trying to get work."

Paul Edinger Jr., general contractor on the job, said yesterday, "everyone will be working tomorrow."

Parseghian said when work started May 22, 1963, Haney solicited the Stroudsburg local to get men and we could only get five men. To get the building underway we asked business agents from locals in Scranton, Easton and Bethlehem for men.

After the walls of the addition were closed during the summer Haney reduced his work force to 10 men — five local men and five from Bethlehem, according to Parseghian.

"It came to a point where we needed four more men and the Stroudsburg local had only two available. We put on these two and two from Bethlehem. They then wanted us to put two more of their men on and we refused," said Parseghian.

When Haney refused to hire the extra local men all but one area bricklayer left the job.

The only local man now working is Dick Doleiden of Stroudsburg, a former business agent of Local 52.

When Doleiden refused to leave the job the local held a meeting and voted to replace him with Hilliard.

Parseghian said when Haney had to cut back his force he kept only men who had worked during the summer. Including the foreman 13 bricklayers are working in addition to Doleiden.

"It was never a question of not giving local men work. We pleaded with them to work. When winter came and they were out of work they came to the job and tried to force their way back to work. I just won't be blackmailed," said Parseghian.

Brinn Chief Deputy Sheriff

STROUDSBURG — Robert Brinn of 811 Flanger St., Stroudsburg, was appointed chief deputy sheriff yesterday by Edward F. Metzgar, Monroe County sheriff.

Brinn was named a deputy sheriff two months ago.

He was sworn in as chief deputy by President Judge Fred W. Davis in the courtroom yesterday afternoon.

Brinn switched his voting registration from Democrat to Republican before accepting his first deputy sheriff appointment.

No salary was announced. Metzgar said the salary will be discussed with the county commissioners in the near future.

Ticket Racket Probe

Mason Denison, Pennsylvania News Service chief, whose column appears five times a week on the editorial page of The Daily Record, has won a minor legislative victory in Harrisburg, where he has been reporting the affairs of the commonwealth for 25 years.

In a series of articles exposing the machinations of the Philadelphia traffic court, Denison asked for a legislative inquiry into the many complaints he and some rural Pennsylvania legislators received from upstate citizens who swear they were not in Philadelphia when they allegedly committed traffic violations.

A resolution introduced in the House of Representatives in Harrisburg demands an investigation to decide if the numerous false traffic tickets are the result of "human error" or a "fraud — either intentional or otherwise."

The resolution is sponsored by Reps. Erwin L. Murray, Democrat of Cameron County; Percy G. Foor, Republican of Bedford; Austin M. Harrier, Republican of Clearview; and Russell E. Headlee, Democrat of Greene. It is now in the House Rules Committee.

The incidence of these false traffic tickets is so high that it is hard to believe that all of them are due to "human error." If the City of Philadelphia were using computers, we might be able to blame it all on "those crazy machines." But ordinary people don't make so many mistakes ordinarily and still keep their jobs.

We think a legislative investigation or a study of the charges by the attorney general's office is well worth while.

But the investigation should not be limited to Philadelphia. One Pocono Mountain resident reported to this newspaper that he had received a traffic ticket from the City of Pittsburgh although he was not there on the day of the alleged infraction.

It would be a good idea to investigate Pittsburgh authorities also.

While the legislature is deciding what to do about the problem, the Pennsylvania Department of Justice has issued this advice to those unjustly summoned:

Swear out an affidavit with a justice of the peace or some other qualified authority stating that you were not in the city at the time you were supposed to have committed a traffic violation.

Sabotage in North Viet Nam

The Johnson administration is sending up trial balloons on a change of policy in South Viet Nam. It is suggested that the United States might approve and encourage South Vietnamese attacks into North Viet Nam.

The idea would be to send small parties of guerrillas and saboteurs to blow up key industrial facilities, railroad and communication centers, and to put the North Vietnamese Communists on the defensive in their own territory.

It amounts to retaliation in kind for what the Communists are doing in South Viet Nam, where Americans are training and fighting with loyal South Vietnamese.

Such sabotage and guerrilla fighting in North Viet Nam should of course be carried on by South Vietnamese without direct American involvement.

But it is time we started fighting this war with the same tactics employed by the North Vietnamese Communists. They are supplying, supporting and encouraging the Viet Cong but they have been successful in keeping the war in South Viet Nam.

The Johnson administration should decide quickly to adopt a more aggressive policy in South Viet Nam and to encourage across-the-border raids.

And we hope President Johnson will soon clear away the conflicting policies about American plans for future support of the war there. The President should make a special address to the nation on American policy in South Viet Nam. What is it? Where are we going?

Taxpayer's Jungle

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — As a prime example of the morass into which an unsuspecting taxpayer can sink when dealing with Federal bureaucracy, let us relay to you the soul-searing experience of Pat Munroe, Washington representative of Editor & Publisher, and other sterling publications from Nebraska to Puerto Rico. Writes Mr. Munroe:

"Some ten years ago, when we first moved from urban Washington to the Maryland countryside, I had the vague idea that we could raise some chickens on our acres at a profit. Therefore I got myself on the mailing list of the Poultry Division of the Department of Agriculture.

"Documents relating to this subject have been coming to us regularly in the intervening years, although we gave up the venture within a few months of starting it. We so notified the Department of Agriculture.

"A couple of weeks ago we decided our house had been cluttered up long enough with chicken - and - eggs literature. The breaking point came when we received another message on the egg problem. I wrote to the Department begging that we be taken off its mailing list.

"I have just had a reply, signed by Mrs. J. C. Patterson, secretary to the Director of Extension. I submit it is enough to make a strong man weep. This is Mrs. Patterson's letter:

"Dear Mr. Munroe: We have your request that your name be deleted from our mailing. This we will be very happy to do; however, we will need to know which mailing list to change. In the Extension Service there are many mailing lists due to the fact that we have numerous Extension offices.

"It would facilitate matters if you would send your request direct to the person from whom you receive the materials; or if you prefer, give us the necessary information and we will forward your request."

For the life of him, Mr. Munroe can't recall whom he contacted to send him the hen literature ten years ago. He thinks the only solution may be to move, without leaving the Department of Agriculture a forwarding address.

President Lyndon B. Johnson appears to have a sufficiency of thinkers about him, both his own, and inherited. He has a brain trust, but in this year of political power plays he might be short on a power trust.

Possibly what LBJ could use more of now that he's a political aspirant, as well as a statesman, are human powerhouses who would rather go out and do things, than stay in and plan them.

If the President needs a man of action he c - - - him

In a most unlikely place — at a banker's desk.

There, under temporary fiscal restraint, sits the chief of Cooke's Commandos.

He is Erle J. Cooke Jr., a man who literally cheated a firing squad, and has had a penchant for the firing line ever since.

Now a director of the World Bank, Mr. Cooke was twice captured by the Germans after fighting in the Battle of the Bulge with Gen. Tony "Nuts" McAuliffe. The second time he was grabbed, Cooke had the misfortune to catch the same interrogator who questioned him the first time and knew of his escape.

He was lined up with three others in a small courtyard in Ober Wilzingen, Germany, and moved down with a machine gun.

The execution squad left him for dead — but he wasn't. Capt. Cooke lived to become — at the age of 29 in 1950 — the youngest National Commander the American Legion ever had.

In 1960, Capt. Cooke went to the Democratic National Convention — on his own initiative — and organized a strong-arm squad for Johnson. He was the one who trained commandos to commandeer seats in all the galleries, ejecting the rightfully ticketed occupants by force. If there was any reason to suspect they wouldn't be demonstrating for Johnson.

"Do anything you can get away with!" was Commander Cooke's simple message to his troops.

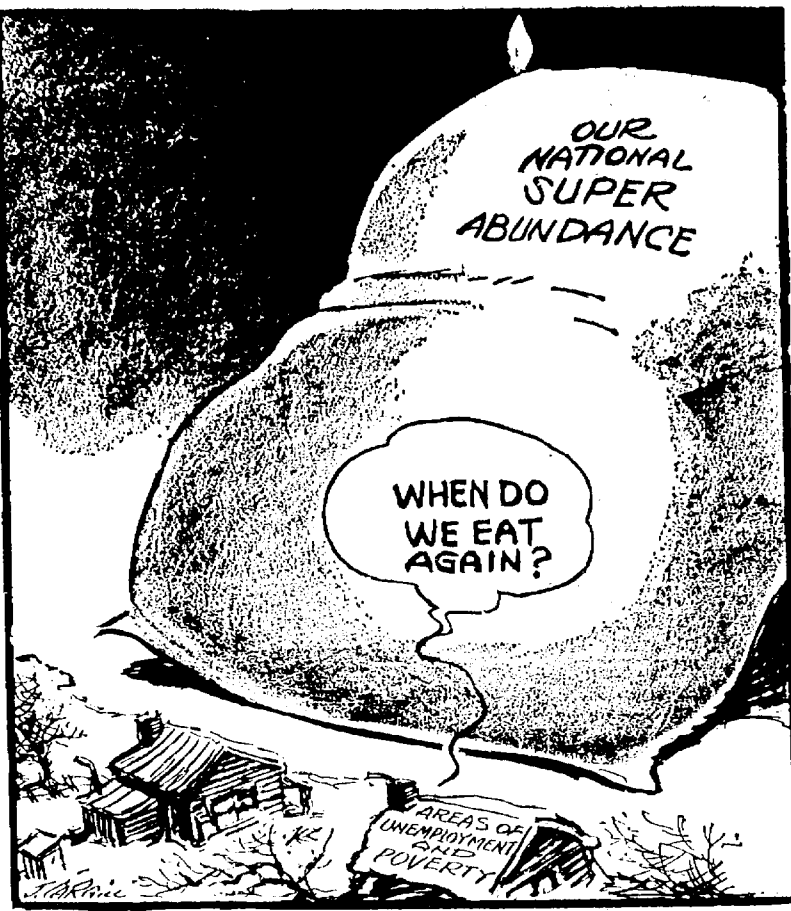

Cooke did it: got the top nomination for LBJ that year, but he plans to do better this year.

Speculators In Wheat

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — Today is the final day on which candidates for office in the upcoming April 28 primary make their decision whether they're going to continue the race — or whether they're going to join the select group of "candidate drop-outs."

Political observers and strategists on both sides of the fence will be watching the results of today's deadline flurry with considerably more than passing interest — for a number of reasons.

In the first place, a glance over the more than 1600 nomination petitions filed here with the State Elections Bureau show this year that almost — but not quite — down the line on the Republican side, "opposition" candidates have filed for office against what might loosely be termed the regular organization candidates.

This has been particularly noticeable on the legislative front where all 209 seats in the House of Representatives and half the 50 seats in the Senate are up for filling this year.

The question now remains: how many of these "opposition" candidates will withdraw by today's deadline?

In this however what is of particular note is the question of "why" this year there are so many filings for these GOP posts, not only in the case of the legislative posts but on the state committee and convention delegate fronts.

Interestingly, the general feeling among Capitol Hill political pros seems to be that part of the answer lies in a determination on the part of GOP independents to buck the organization as a protest move against the Scranton Administration.

Unquestionably for example many a GOP lawmaker seeking a return to his seat is going to be tied in with the Administration's controversial and not exactly popular unemployment compensation revision proposals.

While the showdown decision in the Legislature on the Administration's UC program is not expected to come until after the April primary, nevertheless the fact remains that those GOP lawmakers now in office are being tied in directly in most instances with support (insofar as rank and file are concerned) of the Administration's program.

The tie-in may or may not be "justified" in many instances but it is awfully difficult when you are aligned with an administration party to attempt to break away the psychological tie-in with any Administration program — even with a public denial.

There are many who view the multitude of filings in the GOP camp as an out-and-out "protest" against the Scranton Administration, its policies and programs.

This is perhaps true in a sense (there's always room for protest in any field) but at this early stage in the four-year Scranton tenure it is not regarded as anything of a critical nature nor is it regarded as a serious statewide trend — yet.

The spectrum should clear somewhat after today when withdrawals will denote who is staying in the race and who isn't.

Should a number of "opposition" candidates remain in the field on the state committee, delegate and legislative fronts, it then quite genuinely can be accepted as somewhat of an unorganized expression against Mr. Scranton — which ultimately could develop into something quite serious.

This year is the first real year in which any sentiment at all along these lines could develop, from an indicator standpoint.

New Life For Rev. Creitz

Ever since the Rev. Dr. George Creitz' booming but eloquent voice started ripping the air in Easton, the popular minister has been sought for political office.

Most of the time, the clergyman who can gain friendship with Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the African doctor of the jungles, has turned a deaf ear.

Now Dr. Creitz is in the midst of a four-man race to unseat Rep. Fred B.

Rooney as congressman from the 13th District — Monroe, Pike, Carbon and Northampton.

A few years ago we might have given the Easton winner of the cloth a chance in an election. However, now his chances are much slimmer to turn back anyone, let alone Rooney at the polls.

Northampton County political figures claim that Dr. Creitz could carry Monroe and Pike Counties. Two, three, four or five years ago, maybe yes. But at the present time Rooney has added more strength since losing to Robert Bartlett, GOP nominee from Bethlehem in the two counties last summer. Rooney, though, won out when all the votes were counted in the four counties.

The clergyman's aces in the hole are the two other candidates vying for the Democratic nomination. William Rybak, a candidate who is more apt to withdraw than run, could creep into Rooney's ballwick of Bethlehem.

Also there is a possibility that the other aspirant, John Stephens, would do more harm to the present representative's vote-getting than to Dr. Creitz.

Dr. Creitz has reported he plans an active campaign. If words from an accomplished speaker can do the job, the clergyman normally would be a shoo-in.

However, Dr. Creitz has not been exposed continually to the general public as much the past five years as during his long and illustrious tenure as pastor of the First United Church of Christ on Third St. in Easton.

People have a habit of forgetting. In the case of Dr. Creitz it's like a man starting a new phase of life in an arena that bars no holds and asks no quarter.

Hardly a circle for a religious man who started too late too soon.

The Allen-Scott Report

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is giving important ground to congressional critics of the long-assailed multi-billion dollar foreign aid program.

Under insistent pressure by House leaders, led by Representative Otto Passman, D-La., chairman of the Foreign Aid Appropriations subcommittee, and Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, the President has agreed to the following:

Not to split off the $1 billion military aid from economic aid totaling $2.4 billion. This division of foreign aid into two separate programs recommended by Secretary of State Rusk and Defense Secretary McNamara.

To reveal a detailed breakdown of comparative spending in "four or five" of the countries where the U.S. aid program has been under the most intensive congressional fire.

The latter proposal by President Johnson was a compromise offer to meet the legislators' demands that the administration spell out the amount of aid on a country-by-country basis in the legislation scheduled to be sent Congress next month.

In previous years the administration requested aid funds on a regional basis with specific amounts earmarked for the Far East, Middle East, Africa, Europe and Latin America.

Under past programs, authority for splitting the aid among individual nations was left to administration officials unless specific congressional restrictions were written into the legislation.

A Bigger Voice — The new arrangement will give Congress a bigger voice in the aid program by making it

Dear Abby

A Choice Seat

DEAR ABBY: I chuckled when I read the pros and cons of asking a stranger to move over a seat at a lunch counter. I had always offered to move over whenever two people came in together. Back in 1944 I was sitting alone at a lunch counter when two, very nice-looking young men came in and couldn't find two seats together, but there was a vacant seat on either side of me. I offered to move, but the taller one said, with a grin, "No, just sit where you are. I'd much rather talk to you than him anyway." He wasn't fresh, just refreshing. To make a long story short, that is how I met the man who later became my husband and the father of my six lovely children.

"GLAD I MOVED"

DEAR GLAD: Congratulations. I assume now that you are settled down, that was your last move.

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away ten years ago and every Christmas since then I have been presented with a turkey by his employer. I was out of town when the turkey was delivered. I later learned from a neighbor that another neighbor consented to keep it for me until I returned. I have been home since December 21st, and I haven't seen hide nor hair of the turkey. What do you suggest I do?

TAKES ALL KINDS

DEAR TAKES: Have you seen hide or hair of your neighbor? If not, it's time you went over there and talked turkey. Perhaps she stored it in her freezer and forgot about it.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I give my wife a gift for St. Valentine's Day she takes it back and exchanges it. I suppose I shouldn't complain because at least this way she ends up with something she likes for the money, but it takes all the sentiment out of it.

BERNIE

DEAR BERNIE: Sentiment, sentiment! Give her something you made yourself. Like money.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CHANGE MY NAME": One who thinks you are "nuts" because you are seeing a psychiatrist could need one more than you do. ## Speaking Of Your Health:

Blood Pressure Readings

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The numerical readings that indicate low blood pressure (hypotension) and high blood pressure (hypertension) often terrify patients unnecessarily. Numbers alone do not indicate the severity of the circulatory condition. For the physician, the blood pressure readings are only additional guides for diagnosis and treatment.

When the doctor places a cuff around the upper arm and inflates it with air, he is able to measure the pressure within the arteries at two different stages. The first, called "systolic" pressure, represents the thrust of blood into the arteries when the heart contracts and pumps. The second, "diastolic" pressure, represents the pressure within the arteries during the relaxation of the heart.

High And Low

It is strange that the lower, or the diastolic pressure, is probably more important to the physician than is the higher systolic pressure. Patients, on the other hand, unnecessarily feed their own anxieties by emphasizing the importance of the higher reading.

Out of this emerges an endless chain of confusion, concern and apprehension.

Sometimes the fear of the numerical reading becomes more distressing than the actual condition itself. Fear of the unknown is far more disturbing than knowing the "number," understanding its meaning, and knowing that something is being done about it.

No Comparison

One cannot compare the numerical readings of one's own blood pressure with that of a friend, neighbor or relative who suffers from "the same thing." The number is only important in relationship to the general health and well-being of each individual.

There is a blood pressure rule which states that normal blood pressures should be 100 plus your age.

But there are so many variations that determines blood pressure and its significance that any attempt to establish the "normal" can only induce concern in those who make of blood pressure readings an obsession.

Low blood pressure, unlike high blood pressure, is responsible for a series of symptoms more annoying than serious, yet these readings seem to be as much a source of concern as high blood pressure readings.

Upsetting Numbers

Here too, confusion based on lack of knowledge upsets the emotional stability of patients who reckon health by numbers.

Many active, vigorous, healthy athletes have blood pressures that are considered to be below the statistical average. Nevertheless, they have tremendous physical reserve and are able to carry out arduous competitive activities without limitation.

Yet again, low blood pressure may be found in debilitated, weak, unproductive people who are exhausted after the slightest exertion.

Paul Scott

easier for legislators to cut or increase funds for controversial aid programs in a limited number of countries.

These and other details of the unannounced administration concessions to Congress were made known to the lawmakers by Speaker John McCormack, Mass., following a series of White House meetings to hammer out the new foreign aid program.

In his private briefings, Speaker McCormack reported that the President shelved the McNamara - Rusk plan to split military and economic aid after his warning that such a move would kill the entire program.

He stressed that the President's decision to keep the foreign aid program intact and under one roof — the International Development Agency — would also rule out a shift of economic aid programs to international organizations.

This controversial shift was proposed by Secretary Rusk but vigorously opposed by Representatives Passman and Morgan and a majority of their committee members. The international aid approach was supported by Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Not Convinced — News of these administration concessions was greeted with some strong reservations by Representative Passman after Speaker McCormack revealed that Secretary McNamara had played a prominent role in the discussions.

"Before I give you an opinion, I would like to see the administration proposals in writing," said Passman. "Secretary McNamara is the most arrogant and misinformed government official on foreign aid that I have ever dealt with. I want to carefully examine any compromise to which he was a party."

"Don't you trust Secretary McNamara?" inquired a ranking Democrat on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Frankly, no," replied Passman. "He tried to mislead us on South Viet Nam the other day by claiming that the U.S. was losing the war there because we had cut military aid."

"When we pointed out that his own department hadn't obligated several hundred million dollars we had voted for that country, the Secretary got mad and wouldn't discuss it any further. He takes the position that he can't be wrong and that what he says must be taken as final."

On that note, the legislators broke up their meeting.

Straw In The Wind — Fidel Castro is making a number of very ominous inquiries.

Foreign diplomats and newspaper correspondents returning from Havana report that the Cuban dictator sought their opinion on "what President Johnson would do if there is a revolution in Brazil."

In at least one interview Castro volunteered that there would be a Communist-instigated revolution in Brazil within the next 12 months.

Before raising his question, the Cuban Communist puppet usually flatters his visitor by explaining that he values his opinion highly because of his close contacts with certain U.S. officials.

Castro reportedly shows no concern about a possible U.S. invasion of his island, stating frankly to one diplomat, "The international tide is running in our direction and against the U.S. Under these circumstances, President Johnson would never dare launch an attack against Cuba."

Morning Glory

Morning glory is the name of a family of flowering plants of many varieties. These climbing plants grow rapidly and twine about any object nearby, and thus are often used to cover fences and porches.

The morning glory gets its name from the fact that its multi-colored blossoms are in full bloom, or at the peak of their glory, when the sun rises. The rays of the sun, causing the funnel-shaped blossoms to close before noon.

A person may start out strong in some endeavor, and fade under the heat of prolonged competition. Because of the similarity, a person displaying this trait is called a "morning glory."

Phillips Oil Buys Land At Stokes For Mehl Plant

STROUDSBURG — The Erie - Lackawanna Railroad has sold to Phillips Petroleum Co. 10.19 acres of land near Stokes Mill for use as a plant site for one of Phillips' subsidiaries.

The deed was recorded yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeanette Batory, Monroe County Recorder.

The land will be used as a site for the Mehl Manufacturing Co., a plastics firm, and the building to be erected on the site will contain 40,000 square feet of floor space and employ 200 people.

The property is the old roundhouse land in Stroud Township. It was sold to Phillips for $18,342. To sell the land, Erie - Lackawanna obtained release from two mortgages.

The mortgages were held by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York and Bankers Trust Co. of New York. A property must be free of liens to be sold.

Three stipulations on the deed, Erie-Lackawanna requires Phillips to build a fence that might be legally required along the northeast line of the property, and while improving the land, to divert all surface drainage away from Erie - Lackawanna's adjoining tracks.

The third stipulation said that Phillips must substantially complete the building within two years of the date of filing the deed — yesterday — and it must enter into a sidetrack agreement with the railroad for construction of a sidetrack to be used as a service spur for the plant.

If these stipulations are not met, Erie - Lackawanna will have an option which must be exercised within six months after the expiration of the two-year period to buy back the land at the $18,342 figure, including any improvements on the land.

If Phillips meets its commitments in the deed, Erie-Lackawanna will release it from the agreements.

Erie - Lackawanna's address on the deed is 140 Cedar Street, N.Y., and Phillips' is Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Other deeds filed were: Henry F. and Ethel Behrens, Stroud Twp., to Irving J. and Harriet A. Amazon, East Stroudsburg, property in Stroud Twp.; Herbert E. and Richard A. Primrose, East Stroudsburg, to Richard A. and Evelyn M. Primrose, East Stroudsburg, property in Smithfield Twp.

Also William N. and Frances P. Hameke, Polk Twp., to David A. and Barbara Jane Anderson, 232 Doone Rd., Fairless Hills, Pa., property in Polk Twp.; Laurette Bossard, administratrix of the estate of the late Edith M. Dailey, all of Stroudsburg, to Richard S. and Ruth A. Hinton, Stroudsburg, property in Stroudsburg.

John A. and Catherine S. Lane, Mercer County, N.J., to Henry T. and Margaret M. Labatch, Morrisville, Pa., property in Price Twp.; Kenneth C. and Emily G. Bennett, Polk Twp., to William H. and Rena V. Baumgartner, Polk Twp., property in Polk Twp.

Also Richard T. and Elizabeth P. Crawford and Stephen L. and Judith L. Snyder, Stroud Twp., to George Lichter, Leo Frailey, and William A. McPherson, Stroud Twp., property in Stroud Twp.; Wendell C. and Alice W. Wicks, Stroud Twp., to Gary E. and Sue W. Oiler, Stroud Twp., property in Hamilton Twp.

Damage to the Meredith vehicle was on the front windshield, right front fender, headlight and the trunk located in the front of the vehicle.

Collision

In the second accident, Estelle G. Koster, 27, of 112 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg was traveling north on South Green St. when she collided with the car of Samuel Ellsweig, 78, of 46 South Green St., East Stroudsburg.

She told East Stroudsburg police she blew her horn, but Ellsweig failed to stop backing out of his driveway into South Green Street.

The right rear fender and bumper of the Ellsweig car was damaged, and the front bumper, fender and radiator of the Koster car was damaged.

Meredith was going east on Normal St. when he swerved to miss an oncoming car and struck the rear of Uhl's vehicle.

Uhl's car was damaged on the rear bumper and back light.

For Support Of Area Tourist Promotion

County Probes 10 Cent Voting Tax

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday discussed the possibility of levying a 10 cent per capita tax on registered voters to support tourist promotion for the county.

The commissioners will attend the annual state County Commissioners Convention in Philadelphia on August 16, 17, 18 and 19. All the commissioners and the chief clerk will attend.

They also probed the possibility of splitting the revenues of the proposed tax two ways—giving the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau most of it, but giving other agencies, such as the Western Poconos Resort Association, money received from their districts.

The Western Poconos district would comprise Polk, Eldred, Hamilton, Chestnut Hill, and Ross Townships. Under the split plan, these municipalities would receive 10 cents for tourist promotion for every registered voter.

No action was taken, but acting solicitor Lester Brown, sitting in for Russell Mervine, who is in Florida, said that a split could be done by resolution.

A letter from C. H. McConnell of the state Department of Forests and Waters was received. The letter asked the commissioners for an application for a meeting, so that an engineer could be sent to check on flooding possibilities along Little Pocono Creek at Dogwood Gardens in Stroudsburg.

Last week the commissioners met with a Forests and Waters official and looked at the trouble spot. It was then decided that an engineer should look at the area.

Wants Chairmen Okay

Rader said that if both county chairmen give their approval it would be all right to hold the day.

The commissioners discussed setting a date to hear tax appeals. Fifteen private appeals have been filed since Jan. 1, and Ray Saunders, former chief clerk, said that previous boards had heard up to 20 appeals per day.

No further action was taken at that time.

Mrs. Dottie Kester and Mrs. Evelyn VanGorden, local hairdressers, told the board they had heard that the room now used for hairdressing at the County Home would be used for other purposes when the new home addition is built.

They were concerned that there might not be facilities for the free hair dressing given guests of the home when the new addition is built.

The commissioners recognized the importance of this work for the morale of the female guests and promised the women that a room would be available.

The commissioners discussed the possibility of a consolidated county tax office, eliminating the need for many, small collectors. They said that collection figures now are running high, and they wish to reduce the amount needed to collect the county's taxes.

Edward W. Steinhauer, office supplier, showed the board several models of chairs for use in the board room.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There's nothing more deflating to a woman than, after nursing herself to do something rash like dyeing her hair, doing it and having absolutely nothing happen. The directions said "for lightly dyed or tinted hair" and my hair, having been trained to fight its own battles all these years, just wouldn't yield a shade.

So instead of coming out bon bon white, it came out unchanged. It may look mousy but it's lion-hearted. Speaking of lion-hearted I was admiring the women of the Poplar Valley WSSC and thinking how hungry they must have been at their dinner-less dinner with nothing but money on the meat platter.

I still admire them but my sympathy abated a little when I got further on in the story and read about the hostess serving dessert. Having no dinner must have made a wonderful excuse for having two helpings of dessert.

But soaking up the sun in Florida is no excuse for calling up long distance in the midst of the second biggest snowstorm of the year to tell friends at home about the weather — which is what Marty Baldwin and Boyd Weiss did last Wednesday night.

The Jack Baldwins are a little more tactful, they send their greetings by mail from such points as Key West, and Treasure Island after Pompano Beach where the brothers had a four-day reunion — and a ball.

Welcome as the first robin of Spring is Oriole Nitrauer back from a quick trip to see her parents in Florida, who maybe is sort of a harbinger for the rest of the winter birds.

Convention Committees Completed

Mount Pocono — The Monroe Pike Deacons of Catholic Women who will be hosts at the annual Diocesan Convention on April 11 at the Pocono Mission Schools have completed the committees working on the affair.

This is the first time the convention has been held outside of Scranton and about 600 women are expected to attend. Mrs. Theodore Schultz, Brookheadville, president of the diocese will be general chairman for the convention. She has named the following committee chairman:

Mrs. Michael Chopko, arrangements; Mrs. John Pierson, decorations; Mrs. Norbert Ryan, registration; Mrs. Robert Bauman, literature; Mrs. Marcel VanLierde, elections; Mrs. George Talpas, tickets; Mrs. Marie Brown, resolutions; Mrs. Elwood Cristman, entertainment; Mrs. Arthur Henning, program; Mrs. Thomas Leonard, reception; Mrs. James Cummings, information centers; Mrs. Joseph Viglione and Mrs. John Sutton, publicity.

The nine deanery presidents will help with the distribution of convention tickets. Parish presidents will contact their deanery president regarding the number of tickets they will need for their organizations. The deadline for reservations is April 6.

Surprise Party Almost Misses Its Surprisee

Delaware Water Gap — Mrs. Sadie Decker is one guest of honor who almost surprised her surprise party by not turning up. The SCA Club, composed of relatives arrived with their party dinner to find Mrs. Decker had gone to the home of her son, Robert, to get his supper when his wife had to be away.

Robert saved the day by offering to take her out to dinner and insisting on stopping at her home to first pick up his sister, Betty Decker, and from there on the party proceeded as scheduled.

Luci Succumbs To Teen's Yen For Odd Spelling

Washington (AP) — President Johnson's 16-year-old daughter is now insisting on spelling her name "Luci", not Lucy.

One of the first official examples of the effect of her campaign came in a press release today from the National Symphony Orchestra naming "Luci" honorary student chairman for its "Music for Young Americans," an annual series of free concerts for high school students visiting the capital April 17-May 21.

A footnote explained "Miss Johnson prefers this spelling of her name."

When did the name - spelling campaign begin?

"It happens when you become a teen-ager," quipped Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter.

She said Mrs. Johnson has taken Luci's latest fad with the attitude that "this too will pass."

Will White House official press releases now use the "Luci" spelling instead of "Lucy"?

"I guess if I want to get along with Luci I'd better," said Mrs. Carpenter.

Shifting Populations Church Problems

Stroudsburg — In the friendly atmosphere of the Biggs' American Restaurant, the Lutheran Church Women of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, held their February meeting to discuss future plans and to adopt a new constitution and by-laws which will become effective in November of 1964.

A covered dish supper and an auction for the benefit of the Building Fund will be held in April for the members and their families, the refreshment committee consisting of Mrs. Floyd Walker, Mrs. Clarence E. Weiss and Mrs. Robert B. Smith.

Mrs. Edward Steinhauer, president, spoke on the recent district assembly of the Council of Church Women which was held at the Americus Hotel in Allentown.

Mrs. Calvin Butts was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Thomas Knepp presented the topic "To Penetrate The City" assisted by Mrs. George L. Bush, Mrs. Jacob Schmidt, Mrs. Paul Holloway, and Mrs. Anna Melkell. The topic brought into focus the constant change in church activities due to population migration from the city to urban, rural and suburban areas and how the church must evangelize to meet these needs to satisfactorily serve the congregations of all areas.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Steinhauer, Mrs. Jennie Melkell, Mrs. Jesse James, Mrs. Theresa Biggs and Miss Thelma Shaw.

Those present were, Mrs. Clarence E. Weiss, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Robert B. Smith, Mrs. Thomas McConnell, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. David Hardens, Mrs. Lewis Scheller, Mrs. Isadore Gudalits, Miss Anna Penner, Mrs. George L. Bush, Floyd Holloway, Mrs. Hanna Melkell, Mrs. Jesse James, Mrs. Jennie Melkell, Mrs. Edward Steinhauer, Mrs. Thomas Knepp, Mrs. Calvin Butts and Miss Thelma Shaw.

Dance Classes To Be Organized On April 4

Stroudsburg — Dance classes will be offered at the Knights of Columbus Home of the Father John T. Butler Council, open to all K of C Members and their wives.

A meeting of the dance group on Saturday night, April 4, at 9 p.m. will give prospective members a chance to meet the teacher who will instruct in group dancing after the dance club has been formed.

James Magerl, social director of the local council, announced that those interested in the beginners class may sign up at the April meeting. He suggests members might begin forming their groups beforehand.

Mrs. Paul Albert presided at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Zellers. Mrs. Ed Gunn was in charge of devotions with Mrs. Verna Wagner reading the scripture and Carrie Dunn giving a reading and prayer.

Members discussed sewing for the annual Ingathering to be held at Calvary Methodist Church, Easton, starting at 10:30 a.m. on April 7.

Mrs. Helen Dennis reported she had located a place to hold a rummage sale on lower Main Street and requested members to gather items, dishes and other saleable articles. She requested to have the clothing cleaned and pressed.

Mrs. Orien Reish and the workers on the Afghan project stretching over the past four winters reported profits of $208 for the treasury.

A white elephant sale will be held at the next meeting on March 31 at the home of Mrs. Joan Bentzoni. Members were urged to attend Lenten services at the Cherry Valley Church each Wednesday night at 7:30.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Ed Gunn, Mrs. Warren Bond, Mrs. Talitha Bush, Mrs. Carrie Dennis, Mrs. Donald Becker, Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. Joan Bentzoni, Mrs. Leon Percell, Mrs. Helen Dennis, Mrs. Bob Wagner, Mrs. Paul Albert and the hostess, Mrs. Robert Zellers who served refreshments.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Time is drawing short in our "Be a Seventeen Model" contest, so this is a reminder that all the girls who are interested in entering must do so by Saturday of this week. Requirements are simple, as you know. Simply pick up an entrance blank in any second floor Wyckoff fashion department, and return it to us (preferably in person) by SATURDAY, February 29th. Girls will model in a fashion show Friday evening, March 6th, in our Keystone Room at which time one contestant will be selected to have her pictures sent on to the national finals of Seventeen magazine. I'd give anything to pick up an issue of Seventeen some future day and see a local girl pictured on the fashion pages. Wouldn't it be EXCITING?

Have you noticed our stunning new Gourmet Line of silver at Wyckoff's? All kinds of serving pieces, pitchers, and such, with smart walnut handles, priced from 7.50 to 32.50! While the handles are contemporary in styling, the silver is so plain and regal, it is just perfect with either period or contemporary decor. DON'T buy anyone a wedding, anniversary, house warming, or engagement gift until you've seen the display in our Wyckoff silver department.

Bought a new lipstick today, and what did I choose? This time, Charles of the Ritz in the new shade "Navy Red." It's saucy, and gay—a dare to Spring of 1964 to be anything but exciting. The Charles of the Ritz look is definitely Navy Red, White, and Navy Blue this year, and if you don't think it's for you, take a good look at the mannequin on our Cosmetic counter all prettied up in this new "color scheme for glamor." You'd change your mind, I'm sure!

Esther Ainspach painted the mannequin's face, using nail polish on the lips. But don't tell her I told you. The eyes look exotic... and your's can too, all mascaraed with this blazing blue. Esther told me she tried to find a white sailor hat for her model, but couldn't. So she made her a member of the French navy, with an improvised navy blue beret and a red ribbon pompadour. Wonder what De Gaulle would say about THAT?

I'm sorry Walter Wyckoff didn't stay around to see all the truly magnificent travel film shown in our Keystone Room last Friday. "The World Next Door" is available through Pepsi-Cola and Time-Life publications, and is a real masterpiece of photography.

I know Walter would have enjoyed watching the Persians cleaning oriental rugs. Those rugs certainly take a beating! They are stretched out upon a rocky hillside, and pounded unmercifully. Then they are plunged in a warm spring bath and trod upon, after which they are left flat upon the hillside to take the penetrating heat of the sun. After all that, what could possibly happen to them? If they are still in one piece, and unfaded, they are certainly NEVER going to fall apart! Now I know why these rugs are expensive.

When you buy them, you buy a brightly colored, hand woven bit of eternity... and who can put a dollar sign on timelessness?

Bowling Highlights

You've heard of student-teaching, yes? But what about student-coaching? No? Well, listen. It's pretty much the same thing. Colleges throughout the country have long had student-teaching programs whereby students gain valuable experience — and earn credits at the same time — by teaching in high schools under supervision. Well then, why not a student-coaching program? This was the question posed five years ago by Jack Gregory, then head football coach of East Stroudsburg State College. "Everybody has the opportunity to practice teaching in the student-teaching program," says Gregory, "but there isn't anything that affords an equal opportunity for student-coaching."

But there is today at ESSC, thanks to Gregory. It's only one of a few in the country. It is not, however, exactly equal to the teaching program. The student-coaching program is purely voluntary — and quite time-consuming — but there are no college credits given toward the coaching program as there is in the teaching program. Aside from that one slightly detrimental aspect, the principle of both programs is identical. Here's how it works:

When a boy completes his athletic eligibility, he may enter the student-coaching program which entails such things as meeting with Gregory at least two nights a week. At these sessions, the boys are taught coaching techniques, methods and philosophies, review films of other colleges and high schools, contact other top college coaches as part of a study of one particular phase of the game, and use these guides to prepare themselves for future coaching careers.

Local scholastic football coaches also cooperate in this program by conducting clinics at these meetings before the start of spring football. In the spring — at the opening of grid practice — these boys start coaching the squad under the supervision of the varsity staff. The climax of the program comes at the end of the spring practice when the squad is divided into two teams for the annual Red-Black intra-squad game. An outgrowth of this program is the Raiders Alumni Club which is comprised of all former football players who have played under Gregory at ESSC. All of the members have served in the student-coaching program. Of the 40 former student coaches, only one is not now active in coaching today. Three of them are presently head high school coaches and two of them (Bill Lewis and Sterling Brown) last year served on the ESSC varsity staff as graduate students. The remainder are all serving as assistant coaches or junior high school coaches. All of them are in a four-state area but about 90 per cent are still in Pennsylvania. The Raider Alumni Club each year holds a football clinic at the college and only club members are allowed to serve as instructors. Following the afternoon clinic a reunion banquet is held for all members and guests. "This," says Gregory, "keeps the program continuing more than anything else."

This year the clinic will be held March 7 with Sterling Brown as director. John Brunner, successor to John Whitehead as head football coach at Middletown (N. Y.) High School and now president of the club, also will appear at the clinic. Four high school coaches — and club members — also will participate in the festivities. They are Bill Race, head coach at Falmers (N. Y.) High School; Larry Crosswhite, assistant coach at Southwestern High School; Dick Zimmer, assistant coach at Westfield (N. J.) High School; and Fred O'Connor, assistant coach at Oceanville (L. I.) High School.

DIAMOND DATA — Jack and Jo Shaffer of East Stroudsburg have been re-elected as president and vice president of the Stroudsburg A's of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League. Dick Miller will again serve as manager and Mary Miller will be secretary-treasurer. Miller also noted that four exhibition games have been scheduled — two with the Washington (N. J.) Bombers of the Tri-County League and one each with Florida and Middletown of the New York.

The PMBL this year will be an eight-team circuit with the Stroudsburg Poconos and Kunklestown entering the league. They join last year's six teams of the Stroudsburg A's, West End, Bushkill, Saylorsburg, Reiders and Bowmanstown.

Chet's, Cramer Win YMCA Loop Battles

STRODSBURG — Chet's Lanterman's rocked J.A. Reinhardt 106-47 and R.C. Cramer needed a strong final period to get by Lawson's 91-87 last night in a pair of YMCA Industrial Basketball League games. Hen Chomontowski ripped the nets for 41 points and Charlie Crane contributed 30 to set a torrid pace for Cramer against Lawson's. Tom Moyer netted 27 for the losers.

Cramer trailed by 47-46 at halftime and entered the final period still down by one point at 65-64 before hitting the cords for 27 points in a final-period flurry to gain the nod.

Gene Amburgh paced Chet's with a 32-point performance, leading a parade of five players who reached double figures. The others were Harry Miller (20), Ford Predmore (19), Ron Tieble (18) and George Oney (17).

Chet's rushed out in front by 30-15 after the first period and were never headed after that. The winners held a halftime bulge of 56-27.

Molyneux Joins Navy

SP/4 Gower Ends Course

EAST STROUDSBURG — Ronald George Molyneux, son of Mrs. Catherine Molyneux of 1 Taylor Street, East Stroudsburg, recently enlisted in the U.S. Navy at a ceremony held at the Navy Recruiting Station, Wilkes-Barre.

He enlisted under the Navy's On The Job Training Program and will receive training in one of over sixty different jobs for which he has qualified. He was transferred to Great Lakes, Ill., for nine weeks of recruit training. After completion of basic training he will be advanced one pay grade and granted 31 days leave. He enlisted in the Navy for four years.

Mark Farrell, Stroudsburg Navy Recruiter, announced that young men enlisting in the Navy now may have a choice of taking basic training at either Great Lakes or San Diego.

Vacancies now exist in all of the Navy's schools in the fields of electronics, aviation, nuclear, polaris, medical, dental and general. Information can be obtained by visiting the local Navy recruiting office at the post office in Stroudsburg.

Lessig entered the Army in February 1963, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas the following July.

The 18-year-old soldier attended Stroudsburg High School.

Deaf To Get Keyboard Work

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Pennsylvania School for the Deaf will shortly begin teaching keyboard operation to its students to broaden their employment opportunities. It was announced.

John G. Nace, headmaster of the 143-year-old school, said students will get their initial lessons from a series of 31 training films which have been captioned so the students may read the instructions.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, February 25, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — That old slogan, "It's all yours," is becoming a reality for you. You have better than ordinary influences backing you but you must cooperate.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Put some sparkle into this Tuesday. It's your turn to give others and yourself a fresh "lift," to live. No matter yesterday's success, go for more, soundly.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't suffer from over-energies as you keep the ball rolling. Things are not as different as they may seem. Confide with others on decisions of mutual concern.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some recurrent issues, certain problems, areas? Digging and pulling will win attention and respect from there, you have the floor. Stress of efficiency.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't wait for someone else to encourage you; spur yourself a little further — and harder than necessary; gain will follow your efforts substantially.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Frase slate for a clean, fresh beginning, though old matters every over. In this manner, you can brighten your outlook, will be more susceptible to outside viewpoint. Curb impatience.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Bureaucratic and administrative platform. Don't strive for the impossible. Arbitration, school, and finance in a quiet, peaceful.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Pay what you can of what you owe. In time, talents, ambitions; keep debts to a minimum, but don't fear to try out reasonable experiments.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Mixed influences. Don't be caught in a tide of vacillation; be realistic, firm, move on well-earned gains. Maintain contact with helpful persons.

Barrett Says Papers Top Info Sources

CHICAGO — Speaking before the Inland Daily Press Association winter meeting in Chicago, nationally syndicated Daily Record columnist Cyrus Barrett said, "We are in the midst of a rapidly changing world caught in the blast of an information explosion. 'Daily' newspaper, in addition to delivering the news, are filling the public's hunger for vital information in a way no other communications medium can, and to a degree never before attained. The American public desperately needs information on employment, careers, money matters, extra earnings and a myriad of personal business questions.

"This needed information is available in greater profusion than at any time in history. While bureaucracy, through numerous federal administrations, has attempted to move more heavily into the public information area, newspapers, by their inherent elements of change, variety, newsworthiness, and permanence, continue to fill the greatest public information need."

"I predict, within the next five years, we will see greatly increased interest in private enterprise, as individuals automated out of jobs turn, through necessity, to self-employment. This will produce even higher newspaper readership."

Cyrus Barrett is a vice president of the National Newspaper Syndicate, which distributes his column, "Cy Barrett Says," found today on Page 12.
